

SEABROOK CERAMICS

Archeologists use ceramic identification world-wide to estimate the date of human activity. In the Near East, this technique works for sites going back as early as the third millennium BC. In the United States, the use of ceramics is limited because ceramics have been here for only a short time, but ceramic identification is still a useful tool for local sites. This is a display of the ceramics which come from the Seabrook area. They can be divided into two main categories: Indian and Anglo.