

CENTER SERIES

HUGH L. DRYDEN PAPERS

This subseries consists for the most part of papers written by Hugh L. Dryden on a number of space related subjects. Dryden was the first deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and an aeronautical engineer specializing in the effects of turbulence on aircraft. It is little known that Dryden was also a licensed preacher in the Methodist Church. Copies of some of his sermons are included in the series. The material in the collection is dated between 1930 and 1965. It is arranged in chronological order.
