Biographical/Historical Note (545)

Emogene Brummerhop was born on April 28, 1918, in Pine Valley, Texas, to Elizabeth and Benjamin Hoot. She was a resident of Seabrook, Texas, and worked as a columnist for local newspapers. In the 1950s, Brummerhop was instrumental in preventing the annexing of Seabrook by the city of La Porte, Texas. She helped to found the Seabrook Volunteer Fire Department, served on the city's Park's Board and the board of the Ed White Youth Center. Brummerhop also had a key role in building Seabrook Methodist Church. A Seabrook park at 2520 Repsdorph Road is named Brummerhop Park in her honor for contributions to the city. Emogene Brummerhop died on March 19, 2008.

Scope and Content (520)

The collection is composed of the original newspaper sheets and clippings from the records retained by Emogene Brummerhop, including from her time as a local Bay Area columnist. The collection includes periodicals published in the Houston-Galveston Area, with a small number of articles about the NASA Space Program from other sources. The subjects of the newspaper clippings are the newspaper columns of Emogene Brummerhop, as well as local information and news. The materials including content with an emphasis on the NASA human space flight program at Johnson Space Center.
